Renewing KINOKUNIYA

We are devoted to our customers' happiness and consumer satisfaction. KINOKUNIYA offers our customers the best worldwide selection of fine foods in an atmosphere of warm hospitality.

When KINOKUNIYA celebrated its 100th anniversary in April, 2010, it became a member company of the East Japan Railway Company group. KINOKUNIYA then made a new step forward towards the next one hundred years. Throughout its long history, KINOKUNIYA has played a pioneering role in the food industry, including a royal appointment to cater for fruit to the imperial families in 1930, and we supplied apples to the U.S. General Headquarters Office during the Occupation after WWII. In 1953, KINOKUNIYA opened Japan's first self-service store. Our store was a supermarket, which later became a very popular business model throughout Japan. Since opening Japan's first supermarket, KINOKUNIYA has pioneered introduction of healthy dietary cultures from around the world, including air-freighted cheeses, setting up in-store bakeries, foreign national food fairs in cooperation with the embassies of many different nations and introduction of ecology bags for customers to carry and reuse.

Despite this fine history, recently I feel KINOKUNIYA has forgotten its pioneering spirit. We must reaffirm our new spirit of meeting challenges to revive and to be more flexible to meet the changes of the times.

KINOKUNIYA proudly works to fulfill our innovative cultural role and better develop our mission to provide healthy choices to our local communities. KINOKUNIYA continues to renew our creative focus, to empower innovations which bring better service to the lives of our customers. We are excited to welcome our customers into experiencing and guiding the changes and innovations now reshaping KINOKUNIYA. Together, let us grow and flourish into the future!

Kinokuniya's History

1910

Founding of KINOKUNIYA as a fruit shop in Aoyama.

KINOKUNIYA began its history as a fruit shop in Aoyama in 1910.

1953

Cash register checkout. Introducing a new style of shopping.

The retail stores then used a bamboo basket as a cash register.

Birth of the Japanese first self-service supermarket.

Customers selected foods items themselves and brought these to the cash register checkouts. The first self-service supermarket in Japan, Kinokuniya's innovation, opened in Aoyama, Tokyo.

Kinokuniya introduced shopping carts, indispensable to self-service shopping.

Only a few shopping cart markets existed then in Japan. Kinokuniya obtained these from an exclusive store for Americans.

Providing convenient, elegant kraft paper bags.

The use of paper bags is commonplace now. However, the shopping bag was quite sensational 50 years ago. Kinokuniya provided these paper bags to customers.

1956

Kinokuniya's contribution to cultivating a bread culture in Japan. Opening of an in-store bakery.

Kinokuniya began baking its homemade breads as a staple food for modern families. Today more than 250 different kinds of bread are baked daily.

1963

Country Fairs

At the time, people had a minimum exposure to international dietary culture. Kinokuniya first held country fairs, which its customers enjoyed very much.

1964

Kinokuniya brought natural cheeses from France for the first time by air freight.

Foreseeing a coming change in dietary tradition from simply Japanese to the inclusion of more Western items, and using air freight, Kinokuniya imported natural cheeses, of which Japanese people had limited knowledge. Kinokuniya contributed to the spread of cheese culture in Japan.

1978

Selling select, traditional French dishes.

Under the guidance rendered by M.O.F., which is the highest honor amongst French chefs, Kinokuniya chefs learned the skills. Since then, our chefs have preserved the authentic cooking skills.

1995

Birth of Ecology Bags.

As a collaborated item with the My Bag Campaign sponsored by Tokyo Metropolitan Government, Kinokuniya began promoting its ecology bags. It was originally handed out when the customers collected certain number of stamps by bringing their own bags. One year later, the ecology bags were made available for sale.

100th Anniversary.

KINOKUNIYA celebrated its 100th anniversary in 2010. We continue to offer best quality, most healthy and safest foods with a deep understanding for exemplary qualities among dietary cultures of the world.
